Schools receive gift to the tune of $90,000

Contribution for music programs. The Tenors, MusiCounts bring Juno spirit to Regina high school

JEFF MACKEY
jeff.mackey@metronews.ca

The Juno Awards will leave a lasting legacy in Saskatchewan through a $90,000 contribution from MusiCounts for music programs at the province's schools.

The contribution from MusiCounts, a charity operated through the Canadian Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences that runs the Junos, is part of a more than $1-million Canada-wide program. Saskatchewan schools have so far received $300,000 from MusiCounts, making this a banner year for their music programs.

The MusiCounts grant will be divided among 10 schools in Saskatchewan, from Moose Jaw to Prince Albert.

To ring in the occasion, internationally acclaimed crooners The Tenors showed up at Archbishop M.C. O'Neill Catholic High School on Thursday to perform and to talk about the importance of MusiCounts.

The Tenors also performed Forever Young with the school's choir.

"Something that is cool and unique today is that some of this money was awarded to the vocal program (here)," said Tenors member Clifton Murray.

"They have (previously) mainly been given to bands for instruments, but we are singers and we are so thrilled that they asked us to come here to present this today."

Regina music programs alone will receive $25,000 of the total $90,000 gift.

"This grant will allow our students to perform at more events around the school and within our community," said Alana Baumgartner, the high school's choir director.

"More importantly, it will give students a chance to share their gift of music with others."

Child-welfare system needs more resources: Advocate

Children's advocate Bob Pringle speaks to media on Thursday after the release of the Saskatchewan Advocate for Children and Youth annual report. ALYSSA MCDONALD/METRO

New report. Bob Pringle blames poverty for child-welfare, youth criminal-justice issues

An independent officer for Saskatchewan's protection of children and youth is continuing to call for a focus on preventative services so kids stay out of foster care.

Children's advocate Bob Pringle says that though the province has made strides in youth protection, there is much work to be done.

"I am still not satisfied and not confident that the minister of social services can assure Saskatchewan that all children are safe in the child care process," Pringle said Thursday after his Saskatchewan advocate's office released its 2012 annual report.

A legislative review of the Child and Family Services Act and the Adoption Act is continuing after beginning earlier this year. It stems from a separate child-welfare review in 2010, which found that about 60 per cent of children in the system were there because of parental neglect.

The earlier review recommended an examination of the legislation and the addition of a prevention stream to try to keep children from needing to enter the system at all.

"Poverty, and all the related issues to that, drive the child-welfare system. They drive the youth criminal-justice system," said Pringle.

The advocate's new report recommends a focus on mental-health care and on addiction services.

The number of children in the child-care system is decreasing, though Pringle said that's because many youth are growing too old for it.

ALYSSA MCDONALD/METRO

Report's positive findings

- Child deaths in ward care dropped from 36 to 32
- The number of critically injured decreased from 37 to 25
- Overcrowded foster homes fell from 77 to 63

Asbestos registry law passes in Sask.

Saskatchewan has become the first province to make reporting of asbestos in public buildings mandatory.

New legislation requires government buildings and hospitals to post on an online registry whether they contain asbestos.

A bill was introduced by the Opposition NDP last fall in honour of Howard Willems, a former building inspector who died from a rare form of cancer that comes from inhaling asbestos fibres. The man's stepson, Jesse Todd, says Willems fought hard for the legislation and would be pleased that it has passed. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sask. offers free tests on well drinking water

An increased risk of flooding has prompted the provincial government to offer free tests on drinking water in rural areas.

The Disease Control Laboratory will test for bacteria and the Water Security Agency will assess flooded wells and cisterns to see if the water is still potable.

Health Minister Dustin Duncan says preventing waterborne diseases is an effective way to help protect the public.

The free water testing will be available from now until the end of the flood season.

Modern musical masters face off against hockey's past heroes

Juno Awards. Canada's performers and former NHL stars talk smack ahead of show match

jeff.mackey@metronews.ca

In one of the more unique Juno Awards traditions, several of Canada's top musicians will take on some former NHL greats in a good ol' hockey game on Friday in Moose Jaw.

"I've been doing this since the very beginning. ... I think it is eight or nine years," said musician team captain and Blue Rodeo front man Jim Cuddy. "So many musicians play hockey, and that is what brings me back. It is just so much fun."

This year, musicians including Cuddy, Chad Brownlee and Paul Gutheil of Library Voices take on former NHLers including Mark Napier, Gary Roberts and Ed Staniowski.

It turns out the retired players don't only excel at hockey. They have almost always won a musical game on the ice, as well.

"In the middle there is a skills competition where we do a sing-off," said Cuddy. "It is by audience applause, and usually the NHLer wins because it is so pathetic that the people feel sorry for them."

"Cuddy is a bit of a poor sport at times, but we try to make it close," shot back NHLer Roberts. "I'm afraid to sing in my car when I'm by myself, so I won't be singing this weekend."

The puck drops at 7:30 p.m. at Mosaic Place. Tickets are $15, with proceeds going to MusiCounts, a charity that helps bring music into Canadian schools.

Supreme Court declines to reopen anti-gay case

A Saskatchewan anti-gay crusader has lost a bid to have the Supreme Court of Canada re-hear a case in which he was found to have violated human-rights rules by distributing pamphlets denouncing homosexuals.

The court has rejected William Whatcott's application to re-open the matter, without giving any reasons for the decision.

In February, the court ruled 6-0 that two of the four flyers Whatcott distributed in 2000 and 2001 violated Saskatchewan's Human Rights Code.

Those flyers referred to gay men as sodomites and pedophiles.

But the court struck down some language in the provincial code, clearing Whatcott of any wrongdoing in connection with two other flyers.

The leaflets prompted complaints to the Saskatchewan Human Rights Commission, which ruled against him.

The Saskatchewan Court of Appeal overturned that ruling, leading to the Supreme Court.

William Whatcott promoting a pro-life stance at the University of Regina on March 6. ROSS ROMANIUK/METRO FILE

The high court found that portions of the Saskatchewan rights charter went too far.

The justices said language in the code that defines hate literature as something that "ridicules, belittles or otherwise affronts the dignity of any person" is not a reasonable limit on freedom of expression and is unconstitutional.

"Those words are constitutionally invalid," the decision stated.

‘This town is hurt really bad’

Fertilizer plant explosion. West, Texas, tends to its wounds as investigators await clearance to enter the blast zone

Rescuers searched the smoking remnants in West, Texas, Thursday for survivors of a thunderous fertilizer-plant explosion, gingerly checking smashed houses and apartments for anyone still trapped in debris or bodies of the dead.

Initial reports put the number of fatalities as high as 15, but later in the day, authorities backed away from any estimate and refused to elaborate. More than 160 people were hurt.

A breathtaking band of destruction extended for blocks around the West Fertilizer Co. in the small community. The blast shook the ground with the strength of a small earthquake and levelled dozens of homes, an apartment complex, a school and a nursing home. Its dull boom could be heard dozens of kilometres away from the town about 32 kilometres north of Waco.

Waco police Sgt. William Patrick Swanton described ongoing search-and-rescue efforts as “tedious and time-consuming,” noting that crews had to shore up much of the wreckage before going in.

Searchers “have not gotten to the point of no return where they don’t think that there’s anybody still alive,” Swanton said. He did not know how many people had been rescued.

There was no indication the blast, which sent up a mushroom-shaped plume of smoke and left behind a crater, was anything other than an industrial accident, he said.

The Wednesday-night explosion rained burning embers and debris down on terrified residents. The landscape was wrapped in acrid smoke and strewn with the shattered remains of buildings, furniture and personal belongings.

Erick Perez was playing basketball at a nearby school when the fire started. He and his friends thought nothing of it at first, but about a half-hour later, the smoke changed colour. The blast threw him, his nephew and others to the ground and showered the area with hot embers, shrapnel and debris.

“The explosion was like nothing I’ve ever seen before,” Perez said. “This town is hurt really bad.” THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Former human rights boss a 'tyrant': Report

Shirish Chotalia. Former head of the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal 'belittled and insulted' staff: Integrity Commissioner

When an earthquake rattled the nation's capital in 2010, the then head of the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal ordered her frightened staff to stay inside their shaking building so they could attend a ceremony she had organized for herself, a withering new report says.

Brushing aside the concerns of her employees during the earthquake is among the more egregious allegations of "gross mismanagement" levelled against Shirish Chotalia in a report released Thursday by the public-sector integrity commissioner.

Edmonton lawyer Shirish Chotalia faces serious criticism. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Mario Dion's two-year investigation concluded that Chotalia's behaviour toward some employees and members of the tribunal constituted harassment and abuse of authority.

The report casts Chotalia as a tyrant who belittled and insulted her staff to the point of tears.

She spied on staff and kept a secret file on one employee, the report said, even though that person had never been told of any problems. Her aggressive interrogations of some staff caused "severe anxiety," the report notes.

She's now a lawyer in Edmonton.

Trudeau. New Liberal leader inaccurately attacked by PQ in Quebec

Newly minted Liberal leader Justin Trudeau made his first visit to meet Quebec politicians on Thursday and it was Trudeau 1, Parti Québécois zero at the end of the day.

The PQ couldn't wait to confront its latest nemesis, the first-born son of old foe Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

But its attack Thursday turned out to be a real clunker. A provincial PQ cabinet minister Jean-Francois Lisee, delivered a lengthy denunciation at a news conference where he accused Trudeau of behaving like some "young prince" because, he alleged, Trudeau had "demanded" to meet the leaders of all parties at the same time.

However, it turns out that information was wrong. People from various quarters, including the Quebec premier's office, disputed the basis for the the minister's attack.

"It was a communication error. And that error was transmitted to Mr. Lisee and Mr. Lisee 'scrummed' on bad information," said a spokesman for Quebec's PQ Premier Pauline Marois.

"The request was to meet the three leaders — but individually."

Cops worry about vigilante justice after Nova Scotia teen's suicide

The RCMP say they're concerned that posters that have appeared on Halifax streets in support of four boys accused of sexually assaulting Rehtaeh Parsons,17, could incite vigilante behaviour against the teens.

The brightly coloured posters bear the words, "Speak the Truth" in large, bold print and urge people to support the boys, though it does not identify them.

"There's two sides to every story," the posters read. RCMP Cpl. Scott MacRae said Thursday the posters don't break any laws, but police say they have received complaints. The Nova Scotia girl's family said she hanged herself last week after she was sexually assaulted by four boys and a photo of the alleged incident was distributed online. An Anonymous hacker has tweeted that the group knows the identities of the boys. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Federal Court: Rights of immigrants not trampled when applications closed

The rights of would-be immigrants were not trampled when the Conservative government closed their files and refunded their application fees to get rid of a massive backlog, the Federal Court has ruled.

The court's decision came out as the Tories pushed ahead with plans to reopen the federal skilled-worker program to a select group of in-demand occupations that includes engineers of all stripes, medical professionals and computer programmers.

Eight applicants from places as diverse as the Philippines, Syria, Pakistan and China — who represented 1,400 potential immigrants — went to court over the Conservatives' move, announced in last year's budget, to wipe out an existing backlog in the skilled-workers program by returning and refunding thousands of applications.

In a decision Thursday, Justice Donald Rennie said the move did not break any rules or violate charter rights.

Arrest surprised poison-letter suspect: Lawyer

A Mississippi man charged with mailing ricin-laced letters to U.S. leaders wrote in online posts that he had uncovered a conspiracy to sell human body parts on the black market. On Thursday his attorney said he was surprised by his arrest and maintains he is innocent.

Paul Kevin Curtis, 45, wore shackles and a Johnny Cash T-shirt Thursday in a federal U.S. courtroom. His handcuffs were taken off for the brief hearing, and he said little. He faces two charges, accused of threatening President Barack Obama and others. If convicted, he could face up to 15 years in prison.

He did not enter a plea on the two charges. The judge said a preliminary hearing and a detention hearing are scheduled for 3 p.m. Friday.

Attorney Christi R. McCoy said Curtis "maintains 100 per cent that he did not do this."

"I know Kevin; I know his family," she said. "This is a huge shock."

McCoy said she has not yet decided whether to seek a hearing to determine whether Curtis is mentally competent to stand trial.

Curtis, who was arrested Wednesday at his home in Corinth, near the Tennessee state line, was being held in the Lafayette County jail in Oxford, Miss.

An FBI affidavit asserts Curtis sent three letters tainted with ricin to Obama, Sen. Roger Wicker and a Mississippi judge.

The letters read: "No one wanted to listen to me before. There are still 'Missing Pieces.' Maybe I have your attention now, even if that means someone must die. This must stop. To see a wrong and not expose it, is to become a silent partner to its continuance. I am KC and I approve this message." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

FBI releases images of Boston blast suspects

Warning. 'We consider them to be armed and extremely dangerous,' says FBI agent

The FBI released photos and video of two suspects in the deadly Boston Marathon bombings and asked for the public's help in identifying the men. The agency's website crashed within moments Thursday.

FBI agent Richard DesLauriers said the images come from surveillance cameras near the blast sites, taken shortly before Monday's explosions at the world's most famous marathon. The men are seen walking together in the crowd, and the one in a white cap is seen setting down a backpack at one site near the finish line, DesLauriers said.

"We consider them to be armed and extremely dangerous," DesLauriers said, asking the public not to approach the men. He said there is no additional danger that the FBI knows of at the moment.

Monday's blasts killed three and injured more than 180 others.

The images came out hours after U.S. President Barack Obama promised a grieving city to hunt down whoever was responsible.

The images show two young-looking men wearing baseball caps, wearing jackets and carrying backpacks along the race route and weaving through the crowd. The planting of the backpack is not depicted in the video footage that was made public.

The FBI would not discuss the men's ethnicity.

At an interfaith service honouring the victims, Obama called the perpetrators of the attack "small, stunted individuals who would destroy instead of build." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Modelling agencies sought teen anorexics

At their most vulnerable. Girls as young as 14 approached outside eating-disorder clinic, doctors say

SEBASTIAN CHAABAN
Metro World News in Stockholm

Modelling agencies have been trying to recruit Sweden's next top catwalk talent at the country's largest eating-disorder clinic in Stockholm, its doctors have claimed.

"We find this absolutely reprehensible. They (talent scouts) have been standing outside our clinic and trying to pick up our girls because they know that they are skinny," Anna-Maria af Sandeberg, chief doctor at the Stockholm Center for Eating Disorders, told Metro.

"It absolutely sends the wrong signals when what the girls need is treatment," she added.

The last incident took place a year ago, when the clinic was forced to stop its arrangements concerning patients going outside on walks. "The scouts have been courting severely ill girls aged 14 and 15," Christina Lillman-Ringbor, care co-ordinator at the clinic, told Metro.

The clinic caters at any one time to 1,700 patients, with a focus on "bringing starvation and binge-eating/vomiting under control."

Karlsson's anorexia was so serious that her life was in danger. "I was severely undernourished.... The doctors told me that I would be committed to care if I didn't drink the nutritional drinks they gave me," she tells Metro.

But she saw the invitation as a confirmation that she "was on the right track."

"I was flattered and thought that I finally was starting to reach the ideal I was striving for."

"You had people crying and really upset about it," she said, estimating it was about 45 minutes before people intervened, and she said she heard rumours the student had planned to eat the chicken raw.

App helps Icelanders avoid hookups with their close relatives

All in the family. When users 'bump' phones, an alarm sounds if they've got too much in common

You meet someone, there's chemistry, and then come the introductory questions: What's your name? Come here often? Are you my cousin?

In Iceland, a country with a population of 320,000 where most everyone is distantly related, inadvertently kissing cousins is a real risk.

A new smartphone app is on hand to help Icelanders avoid accidental incest. The app lets users "bump" phones, and emits a warning alarm if they are closely related. "Bump the app before you bump in bed," says the catchy slogan.

Some are hailing it as a welcome solution to a very Icelandic form of social embarrassment. "Everyone has heard the story of going to a family event and running into a girl you hooked up with some time ago," said Einar Magnusson, a graphic designer in Iceland's capital, Reykjavik.

"It's not a good feeling when you realize that girl is a second cousin. People may think it's funny, but (the app) is a necessity."

The Islendiga-App — App of Icelanders — is an idea that may only be possible in Iceland, where most of the population shares descent from a group of ninth-century Viking settlers, and where an online database holds genealogical details of almost the entire population.

The app was created by three University of Iceland software engineering students for a contest calling for "new creative uses" of the Islendingabok, or Book of Icelanders, an online database of residents and their family trees stretching back 1,200 years.

Arnar Freyr Adalsteinsson, one of the trio, said it allows any two Icelanders to see how closely related they are, simply by touching phones.

But he emphasized that the app has other, less sexual uses. "We added a birthday calendar to make sure you don't forget your relatives' birthdays," he said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Food bugs: Report shows campylobacter is on the rise

U.S. health officials are seeing more food poisonings caused by a bacteria commonly linked to raw milk and poultry. A study released Thursday by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention said campylobacter cases grew by 14 per cent over the last five years. The report was based on foodborne infections in 10 states, and found that overall, food poisonings held fairly steady in recent years. There were no significant jumps in cases from most other food bugs, including salmonella — shown above in a petri dish — and E. coli. But campylobacter rose, and last year accounted for more than a third of food-poisoning illnesses in those states and about one-tenth of the deaths.

THE METRO LIST

1 Terror in Boston. If the idea was to strike at the heart of the legendary Boston Marathon, America's foremost road race, the bomber doesn't know the running community very well. You can run but you can't hide. Look over your shoulder: there are 23,000 runners on your tail.

2 Terror in Washington. In the wake of Boston, the U.S. Senate backs away from a bipartisan gun control bill that would have expanded background checks for people seeking to acquire firepower. Is there such a thing as a self-inflicted act of terrorism?

3 Justin Trudeau. Everyone is asking if our new Liberal leader is a chip off the old block or a whole new shrub. Trudeau 2.0 is a kinder, gentler version, but does it have enough RAM to do the job?

4 Unbeliebable. Justin Bieber visits the Anne Frank museum, and leaves this message: "Anne was a great girl. Hopefully she would have been a Belieber." Once in every generation, a kid comes along who embodies the spirit of that generation. And once in every generation, a kid comes along who should just shut up.

5 Another generation, a better voice. Fortunately, Canada has other voices. Beautiful ones. Sadly, one of the sweetest has gone silent this week. Rita MacNeil, who sang her way into our hearts during Expo '86, has died.

6 Beam me up, Scotty. It's called the Goldilocks Zone, where a planet's position of orbit around a star provides the conditions to support life as we know it. Now, the amazing planet-finding telescope Kepler has found the two most Earth-like objects ever, near a middle-aged dwarf star, right smack in the Goldilocks Zone. Even though they're a mere 1,200 light years away, let me be among the first to volunteer to make the trip. Whatever's out there, it's as far away from Justin Bieber as I can get.

7 Toronto Blue Jays win the World Series. Not. OK, so maybe the greatest team ever assembled needs a few more games to shake out the cobwebs. They better hurry through, or the Maple Leafs will win the Stanley Cup first.

8 A man's home is his ... coffin? Concerned about the high price of real estate on the West Coast, a developer has found a micro-niche in the marketplace and is selling brand new condos for under $110K. The catch? They're less than 300 square feet — about the size of a Manhattan hotel room. Suitable for young urban professional ... munchkins.

RE: Ontario Experts To Begin Halifax School Board Review Into Rehtaeh Parsons Case, published April 18

As a 40-year-old woman, having marginally lived through a similar circumstance as Rehtaeh Parsons, I feel compelled to comment.

When funding is cut in programs such as violence prevention and education, this is the result.

Females are not being educated on how to protect, defend, and care for themselves. Males are not being educated about respect, relationships and sexual health.

As a youth, I was raped, I was drunk and I was a virgin. I can speak for many friends who experienced their first sexual encounter the same way, most of my friends in fact. The same problem existed over 20 years ago and is clearly still very prevalent.

The education should come from home, community, and from school. We need to tell our girls that they are at risk when they drink. We need to tell them that their peers will take advantage of them, mock them, ostracize them, and yes, even rape them. We need to teach them to stand up to what is ahead and that even their friends will hurt, crush, humiliate, and even rape them.

I think we need to teach boys more about consent, responsibility, respect, and healthy sexual relationships. They need to be informed that a conversation should come before sex. They need to know that women live years in shame and guilt when they rape them.

Synopsis

Tom Cruise plays Jack Harper, a security and drone maintenance man on planet Earth 60 years after a war with the alien Scavs destroyed all life on the planet. Nearing the end of his mission, he and girlfriend Victoria (Andrea Riseborough) are due to return to home base, now located in outer space. Thing is, Jack doesn't want to leave. He has memory jolts, shards of recollections of the life he led before the war and he wants to stay and explore them. When he discovers a survivor, Julia (Olga Kurylenko), he begins to question everything about his existence. Liz Brown sits in for Mark Breslin.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Just another pretty film

Oblivion. Tom Cruise's new post-apocalyptic thriller is all style with very little substance

Richard: Liz, this is one stylish movie. Every frame could be clipped and hung on the wall to garner oohs and ahhs from your house guests. Everything about it looks great. Morgan Freeman even wears a jaunty cape. But, I'm afraid the style took precedence over the substance. There is much to like here, but for me the story starts to go slightly out of orbit in the last hour and never quite becomes earthbound again. What did you think?

Liz: Richard, I agree. The sights from Jack and Vika's fabulous tower in the sky ... the sweeping aerial scenes ... and don't get me started on Jack's secret mountain hideaway where he listens to Zeppelin on vinyl — the stunning visuals made me crave life in a post-apocalyptic world. The wild tale was fun, until it turned into a renegade Armageddon. I don't know if Joseph Kosinski ran out of ideas as he wrote, but the last half feels a bit hastily cobbled together.

RC: It does. I won't give away any spoilers from the last half because the plot thickens near the end, but it still manages to be kind of standard. Of course there is a scene of Cruise outrunning a giant fireball, and does everyone in post apocalyptic worlds listen to classic rock? But, having said that, I liked a lot of this. This is the kind of movie Tom Cruise was born to star in, the sort of thing that made him a superstar. What did you think of co-star Olga Kurylenko?

LB: Olga's Bond Girl cred makes her the perfect counterpoint to Cruise's action hero swagger — his comfort in these types of roles is palpable and you can just sit back and enjoy the ride. After a few flops last year, Tom is back in my good books!

RC: Nobody outruns a fireball quite like Cruise and I thought Riseborough brought a lot of humanity to a character who isn't required to do much. A lot of the heavy lifting is left to Olga's character, and while she's beautiful, I'm afraid she has the range of an emoticon. She does much better work in To the Wonder.

LB: Riseborough was great in her role — though her character's refusal to question the status quo irked me. I like my ladies a little stronger. This is no Minority Report, but it's a fun futuristic adventure fronted by Tom Cruise.

Criminal comedy of errors

Pain & Gain. Director Michael Bay takes a wild true crime tale and turns it into a darkly funny film

LIZ BROWN
liz.brown@metronews.ca

Pain & Gain opens next Friday. HANDOUT

Halfway through his latest film, director Michael Bay deems it necessary to remind the audience that what they're watching is still based on a true story.

The intertitle comes as the story descends into the surreal — Dwayne Johnson grills human hands, Mark Wahlberg hacks up a body in Calvin Klein underwear and Anthony Mackie tangles a chainsaw in human hair as he tries to decapitate a corpse.

Aside from a few creative liberties, everything in Pain & Gain did happen in Miami in the mid-90s, when a couple of bumbling bodybuilders came up with a get-rich quick scheme that involved kidnapping, extortion and eventually murder. The real-life criminals — Daniel Lugo and Noel Doorbal — now sit on Florida's death row.

Bay pulled the story from a three-part crime series by Pete Collins that was published in the Miami New Times in 1999. The series outlines the missteps Lugo and Doorbal took, from trying to return a bloodied chainsaw to Home Depot, to failing to ensure one of their intended victims was actually dead — after they blew him up in a car and then ran him over twice.

It's hard to deny the story is darkly funny, something seemingly pulled from the brain of Quentin Tarantino, with torture scenes in warehouses filled with sex toys.

But the fact that it's been turned into a crime comedy doesn't sit well with some people — including one of the victims, Marc Schiller, who last week told the Huffington Post he was "appalled" at the film.

But Bay was expecting mixed reactions to the movie. "I want people to be conflicted (when they see this film)," he says. "I want to show a lot of grey areas. When you return a chainsaw that you're trying to cut a body up with — with hair in it — to Home Depot, to get a bigger chainsaw, you don't think that's kind of funny? It's not your cookie cutter movie."

It's smart storytelling, according to Johnson, who plays a character that was a composite of two real men who played lesser roles in the crimes. "In the beginning you want to go on the journey with these guys; they're kind of likeable, but at the end, all that gets thrown out the window and you're happy and satisfied that they get punished," he says.

Baby trumps all in Bublé's new world

Fatherhood. The Canadian crooner has a new confidence about himself that comes through clearly on his album To Be Loved

Michael Bublé says his impending fatherhood has already given him a strength and confidence that can be heard on his upcoming new album, To Be Loved. MICHELLE SIU/THE CANADIAN PRESS

After the spectacular success of his Christmas album — eight times platinum in Canada, thrice in the U.S., a Juno award win for album of the year — Michael Bublé might have felt a certain pressure in trying to create a follow-up, the sleigh bells ringing in his ear turning gradually deafening. Instead, he says he went into To Be Loved — out Tuesday — feeling more blithely self-assured than he'd ever been in the past, committing to a breezy live-off-the-floor recording strategy and declining to polish away the resultant small blemishes in his production.

He had the most fun he's had recording an album, he says. And the principal reason he was so unfettered? He says that the news that his wife, Argentine model Luisana Lopilato, was expecting their first child made everything else seem a little less pressing.

"I think the whole lack of trying (to top Christmas) came from me finding out I was having a baby — I think when that happened, it made me very brave," Bublé said during a recent chat in Toronto.

"The truth is, really, my priorities just flip-flopped, and I went: 'What's important to me? My wife's health. My baby's health. My family. And then this record.' If people love it, that's awesome. If they don't love it? You know what, I've done pretty well.

"Not that I didn't care, because of course I care, but I wasn't insecure."

Bublé, of course, has been provided plenty of reasons for such validation within the industry. It's clear he's not immune from the influence of naysayers, whether imagined or not — when discussing the Junos, he calls it a "thankless job" because "no matter how good I do, or how funny it is, there will be people that just can't stand me" — but the slights seem to weigh less on Bublé now than they did at a more diffident stage of his development.

So why has Bublé succeeded to an extent that others haven't?

"Maybe I'm not following everybody else. I'm not doing the same thing everybody else does. I'm not just writing a song and having the rapper rap a thing over it. I'm doing something that maybe isn't as commercially accessible but is really cool," he said.

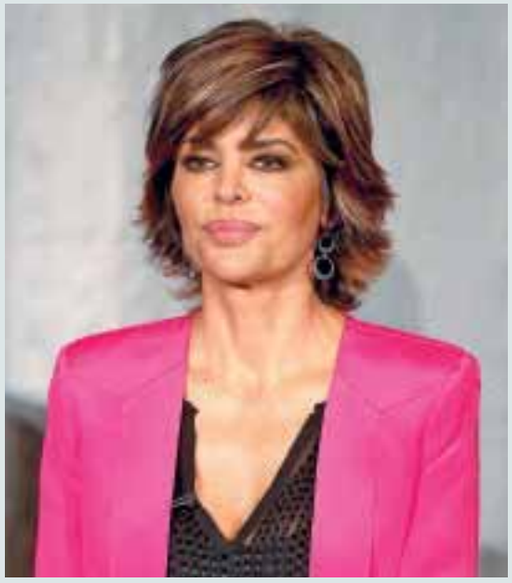
The Word



Lisa Rinna to join RHOBH?

THE WORD
Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

I don't know if I should feel proud of Lisa Rinna's tenacity in attempting to stay in the public's eye or sad. In any case, it looks like the TV personality is angling for a comeback, this time on Real Housewives of Beverly Hills.

Yes, Rinna is aiming for an injected-lip showdown on the Bravo show, apparently replacing Adrienne Maloof.

"Producers had initially asked Lisa to become a part of the show when it first launched, but she turned it down because she decided to do her own reality show for TV Land," a source told RadarOnline.com. That show, Harry Loves Lisa, wasn't long for this world.

"Lisa might come across as very sweet, but she isn't a pushover," the source says.

Interesting choice, RHOBH. And good for you, Rinna. I always feel like she's teetering between some form of mainstream television greatness, or appearing on the cover of a Sky Mall magazine. Maybe this is a step in the right direction?

No 'how you doin' in Aniston's future

Jennifer Aniston had only one response when she was informed about the rumour circulating online that NBC was bringing Friends back for one extra season: "Did Matthew Perry start that?" she asked Ellen DeGeneres. "Because he's getting some good airtime on this show. I've been watching."

So where did this false bit of info happen? DeGeneres tried to clear things up for Aniston, saying, "It's all over the Internet. There's a big rumour. It started in Oklahoma."

Justin Bieber

Maybe Anne Frank would have been a Belieber?

Maybe Justin Bieber wasn't so off-base with his speculation that Anne Frank would've been a fan of his after all.

Frank's step-sister, Eva Schloss, is coming to the maligned pop star's defense, calling the brouhaha over Bieber's sentiments left in a guest book at the Anne Frank House "so childish," according to the Telegraph. "She probably would have been a fan. Why not?" Schloss says. "He's a young man and she was a young girl, and she liked film stars and music. They make a lot of fuss about everything that is connected with Anne Frank."

Salmon walks plank to drool-worthy status

Salmon with Orange-Miso Glaze. For added flavour, barbecue this simple dish using cedar planks

for more, visit rosereisman.com or follow her on twitter @rosereisman

You can either bake this fish or barbecue it on a cedar plank. The planks are available at fish stores, supermarkets or lumberyards.

Presoak them in water for at least 8 hours to prevent burning. You can reuse the planks a couple of times.

Each serving contains 38 grams of protein.

1. Preheat the oven to 425 F. Spray a baking sheet with cooking oil (or have ready a presoaked cedar plank and preheat the barbecue to high).

2. To make the glaze, combine the miso, orange juice, soy sauce, oil, sugar and orange peel in a small bowl.

3. Remove 2 tbsp of the glaze and brush lightly over the salmon. Sprinkle with the sesame seeds.

4. Place the salmon on the prepared baking sheet or cedar plank and bake or grill for 10 minutes per inch of thickness of fish, or until the fish flakes easily when pierced with a fork.

5. Serve with the remaining sauce on the side. Garnish each serving with a sprinkling of green onions and cilantro. ROSE REISMAN'S COMPLETE LIGHT KITCHEN (WHITECAP BOOKS) BY ROSE REISMAN

Ingredients

- 2 tbsp yellow miso
- 1/4 cup orange juice concentrate
- 2 tsp low-sodium soy sauce
- 2 tsp sesame oil
- 5 tsp brown sugar
- 1/2 tsp grated orange peel
- four 4-oz skinless salmon fillets
- 2 tsp sesame seeds
- 3 tbsp diced green onions
- 2 tbsp chopped cilantro

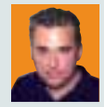
A glass of vodka cake?



LIQUID ASSETS

As a James Bond aficionado, I was more than a bit disappointed that vodka didn't make an official appearance in his blockbuster, Skyfall.

I watched it again the other night, from the comfort of my own couch, and took a tally of the liquor brands that made their way into the flick. Heineken lager, The Macallan single malt scotch and Courvoisier VSOP cognac got plenty of screen time — all purchased no doubt. You'd have to be me to recognize the bottle of Bollinger champagne — its appearance obviously not purchased. But short of Bond sipping a martini, nary a mention of his favourite tipple, vodka.

A vodka martini is a boozy cocktail that can turn off even the worldliest secret agent. That's why producers have been scrambling to flavour their output with just about anything to make them more approachable both with and without mix.

Three Olives Cake ($24.95- $28.98) is a neutral spirit from, coincidently, England that, well, tastes just like cake. Though I doubt Ian Fleming would approve, it's a fine way to celebrate 007's 50th birthday. Just forgo the candles. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. Infuse ribs with maple-smoked taste

Ingredients

- 2 lb pork side ribs
- 1 cup pure maple syrup
- 3 tbsp frozen orange juice concentrate
- 3 tbsp ketchup
- 2 tbsp soy sauce
- 1 tbsp Dijon mustard
- 1 tbsp Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tsp curry powder
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 green onions, minced

1. Soak maple planks in sink with water for at least 8 hours.

2. Light 1 side of barbecue; preheat to 350 F. Place ribs, meat side up, in roasting pan. Cover pan tightly with foil and place on unlit side. Bake 1 1/4 hours.

3. In saucepan over medium heat on stove, combine maple syrup, orange juice, ketchup, soy sauce, mustard and Worcestershire. Stir in curry, garlic and green onions. Simmer 15 minutes, stirring occasionally.

4. Remove ribs from roasting pan and baste completely with still warm sauce. Retain 1/2 of sauce for additional basting. Place ribs on soaked maple planks bone side down. Put planks on one side of barbecue with low heat setting directly underneath. Turn other side of barbecue to high and close lid. Keep temp around 350 F. Planks should begin to smoke within a few minutes. Adjust amount of smoke you would like to add by increasing/ decreasing direct heat underneath the planks and opening/closing the lid. Allow ribs to cook on the planks for 25 minutes. Use remaining sauce to baste ribs several times throughout cooking. NEWS CANADA

Not so fast: Isles put another wrench in Leafs playoff plans

NHL. Tavares rallies Islanders to 5-3 road win in Toronto

John Tavares had two goals and an assist Thursday as the New York Islanders rallied past the Toronto Maple Leafs 5-3.

The Islanders (23-16-5) came into the contest seventh in the Eastern Conference but moved to within two points of fifth-place Toronto (24-15-5) with the victory. New York overcame an early 2-0 deficit to win the first of five straight road games it will play to end the regular season.

But the Islanders have excelled on the road, improving to 13-5-2 away from home. They earned their fifth win in six games as they chase their first Stanley Cup playoffs berth since 2007.

The 22-year-old Tavares, a native of nearby Mississauga, Ont., who played his junior hockey with the Oshawa Generals and London Knights, sent a season-high Air Canada Centre gathering of 19,676 home disappointed while continuing to strengthen his case for consideration as a Hart Trophy candidate.

Brad Boyes, with a goal and two assists, Matt Moulson and Frans Nielsen also scored for New York, which took the season series with Toronto 2-1.

Cody Franson, Joffrey Lupul and Dion Phaneuf scored for the Leafs, while Phil Kessel, appearing in his 500th career NHL game, added three assists.

Toronto will have to wait to clinch its first playoff berth since 2004. The Leafs could have ended their post-season drought with a win over the Islanders and a Carolina victory over the Winnipeg Jets, but instead dropped to 13-8-2 at the ACC with a second straight loss.

Rick Nash had a goal and assist in the first period, and Ryan Callahan had a pair of assists as the New York Rangers hung on to eighth place in the Eastern Conference with a 6-1 victory over the Florida Panthers on Thursday night.

Derick Brassard and Nash both scored power-play goals, with help from Callahan in the first, and Mats Zuccarello found the net for the second straight game to give the playoff-hopeful Rangers their sixth win in nine games (6-2-1).

Zuccarello scored in the second period and then added his second of the night with 4:49 left in the game when he tipped the puck in after Brad Richards raced it up ice and fed in front. Brassard made it 5-1 just 1:24 later with his second of the game, with an assist from Nash, and Richards pushed the lead to five goals with 1:24 remaining. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dickey leaves Blue Jays win with 'neck and back stiffness'

R.A. Dickey pitched six innings of two-hit ball to go along with seven strikeouts Thursday as the Toronto Blue Jays defeated the White Sox 3-1 to earn a series split with Chicago.

Dickey (2-2) gave up two hits while walking one before leaving the game with what the team called a "precaution to neck and back stiffness." It was the second straight quality outing for the knuckleballer after he allowed one run over 6 1-3 innings in a 3-2 win in Kansas City.

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Try to focus on what is good in your world and ignore those issues that annoy you. Believe it or not, the solution to your cash flow dilemma is close at hand — so keep thinking and keep looking.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
As of today, you'll see things in a clearer light, which in turn will give you the confidence to take the kind of risks you may have previously avoided. What have you got to lose?

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
According to the planets, this is the wrong moment to take action but the right moment to sit and ponder life's meaning. Despite what others say, there is no rush to get things done.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
Everything will come right in the end. Keep that thought in mind over the next few days and before you know it, your life will be back on track.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
Cosmic activity on and around the career angle of your chart means you have the ability to influence important people, the kind who can help make your dreams come true. Make contact and show them what you can do.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
There are so many good influences in the heavens at the moment, so don't waste time on anything trivial. Open your eyes and see the world for what it is: a playground full of possibilities.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
You will receive something today that you feel you may not deserve, but that is beside the point. What matters is that other people think you deserve it, and it would simply be bad manners to turn it down.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
Do you have a vision of how your life could and should be? What are you doing to turn it into a reality? The time has come to do something with your potential.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
It doesn't matter how you get your message across as long as others are left in no doubt that you mean business. It's OK to be assertive, especially when your ideas are important.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
You can create something wonderful over the next few days, something that will leave a positive mark on the world. You can also use your talent for leadership to help others create wonderful things too.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
It seems you are feeling guilty about something you should have done but never got around to. According to the planets, you will get another chance — soon.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
Your mind is on full alert now and some ideas will occur to you over the next few days. Make sure you make a note of them before they fade from memory. And do something with them. SALLY BROMPTON
